Synopsis of Blaine's Letters.

CHICAGO, June 6.—The following is a synopsis showing the points of Blaine's letters read in the House yesterday. The first letter is dated Augusta 1872 from Blaine to Fisher. It states that Fisher has been trying to get a settlement without consideration of Blaine's counter claims, that such a settlement was not a settlement. One of the elements to be considered was a note of $10,000 given Fisher in 1863 for Spencer stock. Blaine wants all information about this note. Blaine explains that in November 1861 Blaine was invited to Boston by Fisher and Cheney of Connecticut, now deceased, a silk manufacturer, to consider about Spencer stock. The gun rings in Washington were so powerful that these people could not bring the gun to the attention of Congress. Blaine said he could. He came to Washington two years before he was elected to Congress and saw Cameron, Secretary of War. Cameron did take 20,000. They paid Blaine a moderate fee, not an extravagant one, which any lawyer would have had the right to take. Subsequently in the following winter Blaine bought $10,000 of the stock but never went to the War Department about it in his life. The company is now dead—merged in the Winchester company. The stories that Blaine had a royalty or percentage are false. He paid for his stock and the department was only too willing to have the gun.

The second letter is dated Augusta, Me., ... 18. Blaine to Fisher. Fisher had called for a note of $6,000 with interest, on account. Reference is made to dividends of the Spencer company and to unadjusted dividend accounts and to general business transactions. To Blaine in every instance the Little Rock matter is a perpetual and never ending embarrassment. It is described as the most pressing of all the demands between them. Blaine will settle accounts with Fisher giving Little Rock bonds four for one, the same as they are given in Boston. Blaine is as dry as a contribution box.

Third letter—Blaine is ready to settle about the Northern Pacific railroad and either matter. Blaine invites proposals from Fisher as to a settlement.

Fourth letter. Blaine to Fisher—Fisher wanted Blaine to get him a percentage and a letter of credit from Jay Cooke & Co. Blaine could not. His losses in the Fort Smith affair embarrassed him. He still owed nearly all the $25,000 with which he took up the bonds. Fisher had charged that Blaine was not willing to settle, and Cheney is mentioned as referee.

Fifth letter—Blaine refers to the Northern Pacific matter and to the memoranda held by Fisher. Is willing to settle and sacrifice much for a friendly settlement. He proposes Ward Cheney as referee.

Sixth letter, May 25, 1864. Blaine refers to the fact that the government had decided to take all the Spencer rifles that can be made and sends a copy of a bill pending before the Senate with information about it, including the statement that Blaine had suggested one amendment, its provisions have reference to the fact that the government stood the losses on certain taxes.

The seventh letter is dated Washington, April 9, 1869, refers to the Fort Smith matter and sale of Little Rock bonds. Blaine had kept the money but forty eight hours. He had labored and was unmeasurably worse off than he would have been had he never touched them. Is not willing to make a partial settlement. He again suggests a referee.

Eighth letter—Blaine prefaces this letter by referring to the fact that some legislation was had for the Little Rock road in that session, but he himself at that time knew nothing of that road, and those associated with him did not.

The ninth letter from Augusta, Maine—refers to an attempt by Julian to tack on to the Little Rock bill an amendment to the El Paso scheme, says Root of Arkansas came for information. Blaine said that Julian's amendment was out of order. Blaine sent a page to Logan who made the proper motion and got rid of the objectionable amendment. Blaine then read from Logan's speech and the Globe showing that the Speaker sustained Logan's point. [Fryer interrupting, Blaine asked him whether at that time he had or expected to have any interest in that railroad.] Blaine—never what I did I did to help members. This is always done by speakers. I never heard of the railroad before.

The letter again refers to a ruling which saved the Little Rock bill and refers for the first time to Caldwell, and hopes he will be pleased.

Tenth letter, Augusta, June 1867—Fisher had offered him an interest. Blaine will go to Boston and see Caldwell. Another letter dated Augusta, October 4, 1871, refers to further business details about the $17,000 transaction between Blaine, Caldwell and Fisher. Blaine has a contract from Fisher for $122,000 land grants and $32,500 first mortgage bonds and has received only $35,000 bonds. Blaine proposes a basis of settlement and offers deductions.

Eleventh letter—Blaine thanks Fisher for offering him a chance in the new railroad; hopes Caldwell will make a definite offer if he is in earnest. Blaine does not intend to be a dead head in the enterprise; sees various channels in which he knows he can be useful. Blaine explains that this plan was never consummated. Another letter, Washington, May 4, 1870. Blaine believes Caldwell intends to treat him handsomely; thanks Fisher. In the next letter Blaine explains the cause of delay in transferring the stock, thinks Fisher misunderstood Caldwell. About paying those notes Blaine is embarrassed. He is charged with being wealthy; practically is embarrassed; hopes for help about the $17,000 borrowed money. Blaine wanted to go to Washington this winter but for the load; wants the letter shown to Caldwell. Another letter, Washington, April 13, 1872. Blaine is unable to send the money; wants copies of his notes; claims that Fisher still owes him $10,000 in bonds for which he paid three years before; refers also to $25,000 borrowed money which he is still carrying; mentions also that 6,000 land grant bonds of the Union Pacific company he had left with Fisher which Fisher had exchanged for Little Rock, the Union Pacific only belonged in part to Blaine. Blaine wants copies of all his notes and does not wish any of his notes put out as collateral to third parties. Blaine explains that a lady member of his family had bought the $6,000 Union Pacific bonds on a stockholder basis upon representation of Samuel Hooper. These bonds belonged wholly to this lady, who is well known to be Miss Abigail Dodge.

Mr. Blaine said these were all the papers Mulligan had as specified in the memorandum to which he referred and this memorandum he said he intended to keep for his protection as it was a very valuable chart. The Mulligan memorandum was then read at the clerk's desk. The memorandum was a very brief digest of the contents of the especial letters. The digest was however made in a way which might be said to show that Mulligan had a spite against Blaine. One letter from Fisher to Blaine referred to in this memorandum Blaine said was an error and did not appear in the package. The memorandum as to one of the letters mentions $64,000. Blaine interpreted the reading to say that there was nothing in the letter referring to $64,000.

Blaine's Letter to Fisher.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The session of the judiciary this morning was entirely taken up with regular business—Blaine's matter not being alluded to. The following is a copy of Blaine's letter to Fisher of October 6: Augusta, Me., Oct. 6, 1869. My dear Mr. Fisher—I find enclosed contract of parties named in my letter of yesterday. The remaining contracts will be completed as rapidly as circumstances will permit. ... lose your part of the Congressional Globe of April 9th containing the point to which I referred at such length in a previous letter ... You will ... interest to read it over and see what a narrow escape your bill made on that last night of the session. Of course it was my plain duty to make the ruling when the point was once raised. If the Arkansas men had not, however, happened to ... wait at their wits end and to discover the bill would have undoubtedly been lost or at least postponed for a year. I thought the point would interest you ... Caldwell ... during before either of you engaged in the enterprise. I do ... you to understand that I thoroughly appreciate the ... with which you ... in this railroad ... towards me in business matters has always been ... marked by ... liberality in past years and ... I have naturally come to expect the same from you now. You urge me to make as much as I fairly can out of the arrangement into which I have entered. It is natural that I should ... almost to this end. I am bothered by one thing and that is a definite and expressed arrangement with Caldwell. I am quite anxious to acquire the interest I was promised me, but I do not ... start business with him as I have with you. I shall be in ... in a few days and I shall then ... opportunity to talk the matter over fully with you. I am disposed to think that whatever I do with Caldwell ... by ... Kind regards to Mrs. Fisher. Sincerely, J. G. BLAINE. W. F. Jr.

A Scene in Congress.

The oldest Congressmen say they never witnessed anything approaching to the dramatic effect of yesterday's ... when Blaine ... at the clerk's desk ... Knott ... Wednesday morning ... Caldwell ... testimony relieving Blaine from all connection with the Arkansas bond transaction. The spontaneous applause from the floor and the galleries was irrepressible and electric.

Representative John Hancock of Texas, a prominent ... Democrat, thought Blaine's speech would place him back again in public confidence.

Kasson of Iowa said there never was such a scene in the House. While he had been despondent before, he was exultant now. He was enthusiastically satisfied with the explanation. He thought there was no stop for Blaine now and he would be nominated at Cincinnati.

Harris of Massachusetts says no other man in the country can talk and shake the Confederates like Blaine. He characterized the explanation as manly and right. Blaine's old friends could defy the world again.

Ben Wade says: Well he is the d—dst man to handle in America. He got the rebels down and put his foot on them. People like such a man and they will sustain him. They like that kind of pluck.

Garfield said the disclosure that the Judiciary committee has withheld important evidence will be ruinous to them and the day has been a strong one for Blaine.

Southard of Ohio said Colfax fell on half the evidence that had gone out on Blaine, yet the latter appeared to be rising. A day or two, said he, like this and Blaine will be nominated.

Dan Voorhees said it was the most brilliant, bold and daring attack he ever knew. Blaine was like a horseman riding at a terrible pace against a stone wall; he must either clear it or be dashed to pieces against it. But he had cleared it with plenty of room to spare. The withholding of Caldwell's telegram was unfair and contrary to the American idea of fair play and honest dealing. Every hearing and investigation by a committee of Congress ought not to be of a partisan character, but for the purpose of benefiting the public service and developing fraud and dishonesty. He could not understand how the committee could suppress such important testimony.

Steele, delegate from Wyoming, an old soldier Democrat, said that if that day's business did not nominate Blaine it ought to. It was worth to Blaine a half dozen State conventions.

Sayler of Ohio said it could not be denied that Blaine's chances were immeasurably improved.

Senator Allison of Iowa, who heard most of the speech of Blaine, said it was a most satisfactory defense. He said he could not help admiring the courage, skill and generalship of Blaine, who was a most audacious statesman. He said Blaine's vindication was complete.

Ex-Congressman Thomas and Judge Tuck of Maryland, both delegates to Cincinnati, said the case as it stands makes every lukewarm friend of Blaine a positive one. Blaine's speech will make Maryland stick to him as long as Blaine will.

Col. Schley of West Virginia, also a delegate, said he was a little doubtful about Blaine, but could not now be driven away from him with a double barreled shot gun.

Jere Haralson, a former slave and a supposed follower of Senator Spencer, who is for Conkling, says these proceedings place Blaine on top and will make him the next President.

Knott is much disgusted and says privately he withheld Caldwell's dispatch because he suspected it did not come from him but was put up by Blaine. His threats against Blaine excite ridicule.

The universal feeling produced by reading the letters seemed to be one of great disappointment. Blaine's friends who had not already learned what the contents were, were surprised and indignant that they should have been made the basis of so many unjust insinuations, while his enemies manifested by unmistakable signs their disgust.

The Anti-Chinese Question before Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Senate foreign relations committee to-day heard Senator Sargent and the special San Francisco Commissioners Pixley and Roach in arguments on the Chinese question, advocating immediate action by the federal government to prevent immigration of Mongolian criminals and Coolies to this country.

Capt. Greene Explains.

Capt. A. P. Greene was before the committee on expenditures in the War Department and made a statement designed to correct the impression given out by certain parties that he was an habitual drunkard and a man who could be used by bad men. He denied he had ever been a drunkard. He admitted he had been dismissed from the army for having committed himself while under the influence either of drink or drugs, or while temporarily insane. He charged that his condition at the time arose from the persecutions he had endured for two years from a superior officer. He refused to discharge an enlisted man against whom the officer had a pique. He also spoke of the general unfairness and hostility of West Pointers towards all officers appointed from the civil list. He further appealed to the committee to say whether his conduct or his appearance here indicated that he was a drunkard or a man who could be used by any body.

Clymer said that during Greene's presence in Washington in connection with this matter he had had opportunities of becoming acquainted with his character and had formed the opinion that he was an honorable, conscientious gentleman, and there was nothing in his conduct or character to detract from the high reputation he had earned in the army.

Sam Ward and the Hawaiian Treaty Lobby Fee.

Sam Ward, whose name has been mentioned as authority for the rumor that $100,000 had been distributed to procure the passage of the Hawaiian treaty bill, testified before the committee on ways and means to-day that he had repeated to several gentlemen what he had himself heard as an idle rumor. He did not believe there was any truth in the rumor, but if there had been it would have been unprofessional in him to say so.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—At 1 o'clock legislative business was suspended and the articles of impeachment against Belknap resumed. Counsel for the accused filed a motion that the Senate so vacate much of the order recently adopted holding as nought the plea as to the jurisdiction filed by him, for the reason that said plea was not overruled by a vote of two thirds of the Senators present.

The order submitted by Whyte on Thursday last directing the defendant to plead further or answer the articles of impeachment within ten days from date was amended so as to read that the defendant have leave to plead further, etc.

Thurman submitted an amendment to the order as follows: And in default of answer within ten days by the respondent to the articles of impeachment the trial shall proceed as upon plea of not guilty.

The question being on the amendment a vote was taken and resulted—yeas ..., nays ... No quorum voting, the sergeant at arms was directed to request the attendance of absent Senators. After a short time the absent Senators responded and the amendment was agreed to by a vote of ... yeas to 7 nays. The order as amended was then agreed to—yeas ..., nays ...

Those voting against the motion were Allison, Burnside, Clayton of Nevada, Morton, Paddock, Sargent and Windom.

Manager Lord then submitted an order that on the 11th of July 1876 the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment proceed to hear evidence on the merits of the trial by this House.

Sargent moved to amend by inserting June 14th instead of July 11th.

Pending the discussion, Black, of counsel for accused, gave notice that if these propositions were rejected he would move to postpone the trial until the 1st of November next.

Merrill said the question of fixing the time for the trial was very important. He moved that the galleries be cleared and the doors closed, that Senators might confer upon that question. Agreed to and at 1:20 P. M. the Senate went into secret session.

House.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The House, after disposing of ... to change the rules so as to allow the committee on banking and currency to report at any time, was agreed to. Yeas ..., nays ... The object of the change is to allow that committee to report a bill for the repeal of the resumption act. The House then went into committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill.

Anti-Chinese Secret Organization.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—At a meeting last night of the anti-Chinese Central Union, composed of delegates from all the city clubs, the following communication was read:

CALIFORNIA ANTI-COOLIE SECRET ORGANIZATION, June 1, 1876.

Dear Sir:—We beg to refer you to one of our letters to the six companies published in the daily papers last week, and as we see that you are likely to be in correspondence with every anti-Chinese club, we wish you would call their attention to the same. Since that letter was written our great organization has spread immensely and is now called as above. We have received more support than we could have expected. Our supplies for the city are nearly all at hand and our country depots are complete and ready for action. We cannot be too strong, therefore if there are a few among the clubs who will support us, all the better for our cause. We neither intend to respect Chinese or their employers. As ours is a secret society, much work necessarily falls on the President; we shall therefore deem it a favor if you will make this known to every member. We exonerate every anti-Coolie club from any anticipation in this organization. We are a picked army of true American citizens determined to have a Centennial of our own to celebrate. Signed, sworn and registered according to the laws of the above organization. Signed by the president.

Resolutions were passed deprecating on the part of the Union and city clubs all violence toward Chinese, and calling on the chief of police to protect the Chinese and punish those committing outrages on them.

Niagara Mine Stockholders' Meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—A meeting of disgusted stockholders of the Niagara mine was held last evening; 37,000 out of 60,000 shares were represented. Silas Selleck stated there was money enough in the treasury to run the mine for months to come. He also stated that the assessment of 50 cents per share had been levied, and denounced it as a swindle. He said the mine could be worked to advantage at an expense of from $15,000 to $20,000 monthly. The committee reported that they had instituted an injunction suit in the Twelfth District Court, which would be tried this morning in that court. The suit has been brought to restrain the present trustees from collecting the 50 cent assessment. The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

Sacramento Races.

SACRAMENTO, June 6.—There was a good attendance at Agricultural Park this afternoon and a lively contest for the trotting purse of $750, which was won by Gold Note, who took the second, fourth and fifth heats. The best time was 2:37½, made by Jerome in the third heat. Prince Allen took the first heat and was the second horse in the second, third and fifth heats. The programme for to-morrow is particularly good and embraces two fine contests. As a great deal of interest is being taken in the handicap race it is likely that the attendance will be the largest of the season. The following horses are entered for the handicap purse, $15 entrance, $40 added, mile heats, $20 if declared, second horse to save his entrance: Reveille, South Breeze, Billy Newell, Golden Gate, Lady Amanda, Bradley, Turf Gallery, Emma Skaggs and Minnie Blackburn. In the trotting race for the 2:32 class Gold Note barred, mile heats, 3 in 5, purse $600, the first horse to get $400, the second $140 and the third $60: Professor, American Maid, Abdallah Joe, Low Whipple and Long John are entered.

San Diego News.

SAN DIEGO, June 6.—We had a shower of rain last night and this morning, clearing the atmosphere and freshening everything. The latest advices from the country show that the honey crop, which promised so well early in the season, is likely to be short. The long continued cold weather in the foot hills having blasted the bee feed. The yield will not exceed that of last season.

NEVADA.

Anti-Coolie Mob.

CARSON, June 6.—About nine o'clock this morning a mob of men composed of anti-coolie clubs started towards the railroad about one mile from town for the purpose of running off the Chinamen working for the railroad company's flume wood tossing. After leaving it was found that the guns from the armory of the Carson Guards had been stolen, or hidden away. The sheriff of Ormsby county started for the scene of the expected battle. No news from there has been received up to the present time, 10:30 A. M.

Jacob Norcross, the man who was with Ralston when he was drowned, is lying at Mr. Crabtree's near the place where the accident occurred in a very precarious condition—badly bruised about the legs from the floundering of his saddle horse. A messenger who came in for Dr. Rice of this city reports Mr. Norcross bleeding badly, making it altogether doubtful about recovery, he having been in the water so long.

Spanish News.

MADRID, June 6.—In the Senate yesterday during the debate on the new constitution, Premier Canovas Del Castillo said the situation of political parties in Spain prevented the government from surrendering its right to suspend the constitutional guarantees.

In the Cortes the discussion of the war estimates was begun. The Premier, making the adoption of the budget a cabinet question, stated that the budget aimed at the reduction of 1,000,000 pesetas, which was sufficient.

According to the latest intelligence from Rome there is a prospect of an understanding between Spain and the Vatican.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JUNE 7, 1876.

THE ELECTION.

The returns thus far received are so incomplete that it is almost impossible to say with certainty how the election has resulted. The Republicans have been successful in many places, and in some the Democrats seem to have carried the day. From most of the counties the full returns have not yet been received, and the final result may prove very different from what is now indicated. It is impossible, as yet, to say what the complexion of the next legislature will be. The Democrats claim a clear majority on joint ballot; but their claim is by no means one to be conceded. The probabilities at present are that the two parties will be pretty evenly balanced with a slight preponderance in favor of the Republicans. In this district Mr. Stott, Republican candidate for prosecuting attorney is elected by a handsome majority over his Democratic competitor, Mr. Strong. The whole of the county ticket in Multnomah is elected with the exception of Sheriff, and, possibly, one or two of the legislators. In other counties heard from the returns indicate that a great deal of scratching has been done and that neither ticket has been wholly successful. Perhaps in no previous election has there ever been so few straight tickets voted as at this.

The returns we have given are all that have been received up to the time of going to press.

MR. BLAINE'S VINDICATION.

The enemies of Mr. Blaine have thus far failed to convict him of the commission of any crime, or act, which should justify the Republican party in withholding from him its support in the coming contest at Cincinnati. The heart of the nation was sorely troubled when the charges against him were first made. Not only his friends were distressed, but also the best portion of his opponents—those who opposed him, not because they believed him to be a corrupt man, but because they held different ideas of political expediency. Both felt alarmed for the future of the country when the foremost man of a great party was accused of the commission of acts of venality and corruption. But the issue of the searching examination which has been made into the subject matter of the charges proves beyond doubt that there never was at any time any foundation for these charges.

The truth of the matter seems to be that long before Mr. Blaine became a member of Congress and probably long before he thought of becoming a candidate, except, perhaps, as every ambitious man hopes some day to secure that office, Mr. Blaine took stock in certain contracts which promised to be remunerative. These he hold for a length of time and, perhaps, made some money out of them. Surely there was no wrong in this. It is a thing that men who do, and do not, become members of Congress, often do. One would be guilty of the height of vanity, to say the least, if he refrained from taking shares in government contracts for the reason that he might hereafter be a Congressman and a candidate for the office of President. Mr. Blaine probably had no thought either of Congress or of the presidency when he took the shares in the Spencer Rifle company for which he has been criticised. If there had been anything improper in that transaction it is unreasonable to believe it would not have been brought to light by the present investigating committee, and, since nothing has been brought to light, it is only fair to assume that there is nothing there.

As for the railway bonds alleged to have been improperly disposed of by Mr. Blaine to the U. P. R. R., there is not only an absolute failure of proof to sustain the charge; but the strongest evidence to the contrary. All the parties who are able to testify affirmatively and positively, say with emphasis that no such sale as that which has been charged was ever made by Mr. Blaine. And Mr. Blaine himself gives the most unequivocal denial to the charge.

As to all these charges, the truth seems to be that Mr. Blaine is justly regarded by the Democrats as their most formidable antagonist—the man who, if nominated, would be the most difficult to beat. Hence, if possible, they must prevent his nomination. Once nominated, the whole of the Southern and the whole of the Northern Republican vote would be given for him, and, in event of the nomination of a "rag baby" candidate at St. Louis, the votes of many Democrats, who would prefer him to a man suspected, even, of a leaning towards soft money. This has long been well known to the Democratic leaders and in addition to this is the fact that to many of the Democratic political managers Mr. Blaine is an object of the strongest envy and hatred on account of the boldness, energy, skill, and persistence of his attacks upon them personally. It is not surprising, therefore, that the whole of Mr. Blaine's life has been critically examined, or that everything possible has been done to prove him unfit for the office for which he is a prominent candidate. Thanks to the efforts of the Democrats we now know all about Mr. Blaine. The most credulous could not believe that there can be anything more, or worse, than has been revealed, and that is not sufficient to create an unfavorable opinion concerning him.

THE KITTITASS VALLEY.

ELLENSBURGH, Yakima Co., W. T.,
May 29th, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The people of our little valley, the Kittitass, are becoming awake to their interests. A party has been over to the Columbia prospecting for an outlet, and they find that with a small outlay of work there can be a good road made to the Columbia river, the length of which will not be over 30 miles from this valley. A meeting was held at Ellensburgh on the 28th inst., at which addresses were delivered by G. W. Parrish, Squire Brush, B. W. Frishe, Prof. C. B. Reed and others, at the close of which a subscription was taken up for work on said road and the amount of 90 days work was subscribed. The work will be commenced about the first of June, 1876, and pushed forward with a will, and when completed we will have as good an outlet as our neighbors of Walla Walla, for the O. S. N. Co's boats can come within 30 miles of our doors. We can then bid adieu to Umatilla and The Dalles, distant 120 miles, and in one day's drive reach navigation and transportation on one of the greatest thoroughfares of the world. Come all of ye disconsolate. We have plenty of land for a hundred families, and you can find a home here, where soil and climate are equal to, if not better than any other valley on the coast.

A SETTLER.

THE TERRITORIES.

Bear and Utah lakes are furnishing the Salt Lake market with splendid trout.

The smallpox at Laramie is confined to one house and to one person, by reason of good sanitary regulations and common sense.

The Port Townsend paper has changed from a patent outside paper to a patent inside paper, with four pages printed at home and four in 'Frisco.

One of the wards of the insane asylum, at Steilacoom, was set on fire by sparks falling on the moss which had accumulated on the roof, last Sunday. It was discovered in time to prevent a serious conflagration.

W. F. Sealy, a pioneer, for many years a boatman on the Sound, has been adjudged insane and sent to the asylum, from Pierce county. Mrs. Olivia H. Carr, of King county, and James Reilly, of Snohomish, have likewise recently been admitted as patients of that institution.

Dom Pedro, while in Salt Lake, said to the correspondent of the New York Herald, who was traveling with him: "I think Mormonism will not last long. The system of polygamy is opposed to the spirit of civilization of the present day. I cannot believe the people give credence to the revelations of Joe Smith and Brigham Young. I cannot understand that the United States permits in its midst a polygamous society. By its laws it would suppress immorality in a city. When, then, permit it here?"

The amount of wool now passing through Pendleton daily would astonish some people living off the great highway to Umatilla. From 40,000 to 100,000 pounds can be seen almost daily in great sacks on wagons en route to Umatilla.

CLOSING EXERCISES AT ST. HELEN'S HALL.

The examination of classes began on Saturday, June 3d. We cannot speak of these in order, nor would it be fair to lump them all together in one general remark. This city certainly enjoys educational privileges rarely possessed by so small a place. St. Helen's Hall for instance, would be a school of mark in any of our Eastern cities. In those studies in which girls are not supposed to excel, the scholars showed a proficiency and readiness rarely surpassed anywhere. Miss Rodney's Latin class, in Tacitus and Horace, Miss Blackler's class in algebra, and Mrs. Clopton's class in trigonometry, deserve special mention. Whatever may be thought of the expediency of teaching young ladies the higher mathematics, no one could listen to the recitations of these last two classes without being convinced that the drill of these studies would be a benefit to the scholars for all time to come.

The graduating exercises began in the school room at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. Miss Emma Lewis read a composition on "Our English Speech." Miss Carrie Caples followed, her subject being "Through Thorns to Thrones." Miss Mary E. Stone read "A Letter written December 31, 1776, from Philadelphia to a young lady in England." This young lady, it was supposed, had lived long enough in our country to become in thorough sympathy with the revolution. Miss Emma Lewis followed with a French composition entitled "Les Chateaux en France." Mrs Jennie Caples gave us the principal "Inducements to come to Oregon." Miss Mary E Stone then read a French composition—subject, "Froissart." The last piece, the valedictory, was read by Miss C. A Humason, of The Dalles. Her subject was "Concerning Spectacles."

Each of the graduating class had prepared an essay in French or German, but only two were read.

After the reading of the compositions, the friends and visitors repaired to the chapel, where a short choral service was rendered and the Bishop read his address, taking for his subject "Moderation." The graduating class were then presented with their diplomas, and the service closed with prayer and the singing of the hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Thus ended a happy day for all the friends of this admirable institution. Quite a large number of visitors witnessed the closing exercises.

Bishop's Address.

"MODERATION."

I have thought it well to address some counsel to the members of this school generally, and to the present graduating class especially, on the topic of moderation. St. Paul considered this a matter of such importance that in writing a letter to the early converts to Christianity in Phillippi he says: "Let your moderation be known unto all men;" let it be such a conspicuous trait in your characters that it shall be known and recognized by all your associates and acquaintances. Moderation, as here used, has a wide signification, and may be taken to include the ideas of meekness under provocation, readiness to forgive injuries, candor in the judgment of the actions of others, sweetness of disposition, and the entire government of the passions. Its common signification, however, will be sufficient for our present purpose. Moderation is thus understood to be the opposite of excess, exaggeration and extravagance. It represents the difference between "use" and "abuse," and this difference makes much of the good or ill of our whole lives. God has given us a world so garnished with beauty and crowded with all manner of good things, that it will minister to every taste, desire and passion of man's heart. And it is as he uses or abuses this world that he makes his own happiness or misery. Moderation then, is nothing but the right use of God's gifts. How large a subject thus opens for discussion, will appear at once, and we can only treat of a very small portion of it on this occasion. As life and its duties lie before a young girl, passing through her school days or just returning to her home, no counsel for moderation would seem to come before that concerning the use of pleasure. Pleasure is as natural to the heart of a young girl, as song is to a bird, and to stifle that desire and deny it all gratification, would be folly and cruelty in the extreme. But it is only as pleasure is pursued and enjoyed in moderation, that it has any power to please or satisfy. Whenever its pursuit becomes immoderate and excessive, it is turned into satiety, weariness and disgust. We are told upon Divine authority that, "She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth"—dead to the true enjoyment and the true purpose of life. To "live in pleasure" is to give one's self up to it, to make it the chief pursuit and passion of life, and so to become selfish, narrow-hearted, cold and indifferent to all others, and thus to dry up and exterminate all the better parts of one's nature. Nothing will so surely lay waste all the attractiveness and beauty of a young girl's character as a life of immoderate pleasure. Who so unattractive and unlovely, even with surpassing wit and brilliancy as she whom you French scholars call blasee. She has already tasted to fullness and satiety the pleasures of life, and sighs for a new sensation which she believes the world can no longer give. A life of excessive pleasure is necessarily a life of idleness, as to all sober duties and cares, and consequently without real relish and enjoyment. The old maxim, "Labor ipse voluptas," is as true of the life of a young girl as of any one. And if she turn away from the every day homely duties, cares and toils of her station, with distrelish and disdain, thinking to find happiness and contentment in the easy idle trivolities of life, so surely does she turn to weariness, disappointment and final sadness and bitterness of heart. Let me say to you then young girls, one and all, take moderately of the pleasures of life. Let them come like the desserts and dainties of the table, after the nourishing and strength-giving meal. Appropriate them to your vacant and leisure hours; use them for rest, recreation and refreshment, or otherwise you will come to say, in all bitterness of soul, even while the spring and summer of your years yet remain,

> "My days are in the yellow leaf,
> The flowers, the fruits of love, are gone,
> The worm, the canker and the grief
> Are mine alone."

Next to moderation in pleasure, I would enjoin that which is very closely allied thereto—moderation in dress. I have spoken of this before, here and elsewhere, but it is a subject that will bear and that requires repetition. That immoderate dressing is a very serious and growing evil, can hardly be questioned, I think, by any one. Much of the distress that now prevails throughout our country comes from wasteful expenditures in domestic life, of which our clothing is an important part, and that which generally sets the key and indicates the scale for all other things. They that are clothed in purple and fine linen will fare sumptuously every day, if they can, and as soon as they can command the means, surround themselves with all the appliances of extravagant and ostentatious living. Bankruptcy, defalcation in high and sacred trusts, a pistol to the temple, a plunge into the deep waters of the sea, a widow and children with broken hearts and blasted lives, make the sequel. Now, there are two classes that should abstain from this immoderate dressing. First, the rich,—they that say or think they can afford to dress extravagantly, and, secondly, those of limited and narrow means who can not afford it. If the rich can afford to dress in a costly manner, they of all others can afford to do without it. They have no reputation to make by such means: there are a thousand other better ways in which to spend their money, and, for the sake of example to others, to remove a fertile cause of envy, to save many a sigh from the heart of the poor, they should clothe themselves and their households without show and extravagance. Manifestly too, they who have not the means have no right to costly or showy dressing. We see much of this in the street, and in other public places where we know that it comes of a lean larder, of thin beds, bare floors and daily discomforts at home. The vanity that turns out wife and children from such homes, to display their fine clothes to the public can be characterized by no terms too severe of censure. It is not to be denied that there are times and occasions when a superior style of dressing, when richer and more costly toilets are proper and becoming, and tend to the support of refinement and true taste, to the dignity of manners and to the general refinement and elevation of society. Yet even here, good taste and good sense will avoid extravagance and ostentation. But when a display of silks and satins, flowers and furbelows, rings and pins, bracelets and necklaces, is made in the street or in the house of God, it unmistakably betrays a coarse and vulgar taste, a light and frivolous heart, a not a character only to be shunned and pitied. But with none is this immoderate dressing more out of place than with the school girl. It certainly loses all beauty and fitness here, it is an [illegible] waste of money, a provocative of envy in the untored minds of other children, a deep [illegible] snare to the [illegible] [illegible] that loved, and an advertisement of parental weakness and vanity. Let those who come here seek in place of such outward show and ornament the inward adorning of true knowledge and modesty; the meek and quiet spirit which will not only win the commendation and favor of all wise and discerning men and women, but which is in the sight of God, of great price

Though we are accustomed to encourage you here to the most diligent pursuit of knowledge, and though we seldom need to restrain your efforts in this direction, there is one branch of knowledge, nevertheless, in which your attainments should be characterized by moderation in the extreme and that is the knowledge of other people's affairs. Here there is no occasion for study, research or investigation whatever. When St. Paul said to the Thessalonians, "Study to be quiet, and to do your own business," he evidently meant that they should leave other people's business undone, and he considered this a Christian requirement. Happy would it be for us, in these times, if all people who profess and call themselves Christians thought the same. If there is any ignorance that will bring us bliss, it is surely ignorance of our neighbors' private and personal matters, and it is the officious and impertinent meddling with these that makes most of the unhappy vexations of domestic life. The taste for gossip and petty scandal, the habit of gathering and relating the tittle tattle of the town or neighborhood, comes, as we well know, of a vacant and uninformed mind, and children, with their limited range of knowledge, and freedom from thought or care, are specially exposed to this temptation. As one sickly sheep infects the whole flock, so one gossipping, meddling child is in danger of spreading this evil habit through a whole school and opening out the private, domestic life of every household to the impertinent inspection and criticism of the idle and vulgar gossips of a whole neighborhood. So if we would cure this terrible bane of society, we must begin our cautions and admonitions with the children. The best and surest corrective of this pernicious habit is to store the mind with true knowledge, and thus give pleasing and profitable employment to all its faculties. Some body has stupidly said that ignorance is the mother of devotion. If it had been the mother of gossip, it would have been much nearer the truth. But while children's minds are in the process of education they need a wise and firm restraint in this direction and the constant vigilance and solicitude of parents. There is an old and homely saying, that children perhaps will be more apt to remember than something more elegantly expressed. "Never look down your neighbor's chimney, nor lift the lid of the pot to see what he has for dinner." And so, to give practical force and point to our instructions we would say to school children don't talk to one another about things at home; don't repeat what father or mother have uncautiously said about their own business, or about that of somebody else. Don't ask one another how things are done at each other's homes. Don't criticise the dress of other children, if it is extravagant, tawdry or in bad taste, it is the mother's fault and not the child's. If it is coarse and poor and old, that is a matter of very little consequence, for which there is doubtless a good reason, all of which is none of your business. You have enough to learn from your books and teachers, from art and nature and the wide world of wealth and beauty that lies about you, study these, store your mind with their wonders and marvels, learn in them the handiwork of the Great Author and Maker of all things, and through them see and know of His infinite and adorable perfections and you will soon have a disrelish for all the little and belittling things which concern the private and personal affairs of other people.

I would further counsel moderation in the matter of making the acquaintance of other people, and especially in that of personal intimacy with them. Young people are very apt to have an ambition for a long list of acquaintances, and eagerly avail themselves of every opportunity to add a new name. Intelligent, cultivated, Christian people are unhappily not the majority in this country or in any other, and whenever a young girl makes a new acquaintance, takes a new friend into familiar and intimate intercourse, the chances are very largely against any increase of useful knowledge, or any benefit to morals or manners. Let your intimate friends be few and choice. As a general rule it is a disadvantage to know people very intimately. Human character at the best will not bear much close and microscopic inspection. The infelicities of small communities come from this, That people know each other too well and cannot ignore or forget their faults and failings; hence that well accepted but humiliating sentiment that familiarity breeds contempt. This intimate knowledge of the weak places in the character of our companions shuts out the favorable judgment which, in our charity, we would be glad to give them, and compels us to see them as they are, without the benefit of the doubt they might have, but that we know them so well. With a small and select number of chosen friends, then, you will be safer and happier than with a long array of names that you might display to the wonder and envy of your thoughtless and inexperienced companions.

Many other subjects occur on which lessons of moderation might well be given, if the time would allow. I would like to remind young girls of the importance of moderation in their speech, voice and laughter. All have not the gift of a musical voice, but all can subdue their tones, and abstain from extravagant terms of speech and noisy conversation. The son of Sirach says: "A man's attire and excessive laughter, and gait show what he is. A fool lifteth up his voice with laughter, but a wise man doth scarce smile a little." When one hears the elevated tones, extravagant adjectives and epithets, the loud and boisterous laughter of young girls in the railroad car, or in the street, and sometimes even in the private circle of the drawing room,—the thought arises that it would be well for them to take heed even to this apochryphal wisdom, and learn moderation even in these things. Do not suppose that these matters are all together of minor importance, and unworthy the the time here given to them. They are the habits of life, and habits lie very closely allied to principles, they surely confirm and strengthen principles. Habits make character, and character gives influence, power, happiness or misery. With these habits of moderation your thoughts, feelings and sentiments will be the more likely to flow in the same even tenor, and your general conduct will partake of the same composure and equanimity. It was long ago told us that the "via media" was the way of safety, and the "golden mean" has been admired and commended by wise men of all ages. If you seek for moderation in these things, you will the more easily advance to the higher attainments of the same virtue of which we spoke in the beginning—"meekness under provocation, readiness to forgive injuries, candor in the judgment of the actions of others, sweetness of disposition and the entire government of the passions." If these things be in you, and abound, they make you, that you shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the true and noble purposes of life. This habit and frame of mind will enable you to have a true and just estimate of life, and not allow you to look forward to its happiness and rewards with extravagant and unreasonable hopes and expectations. Life is very much of a long level to most people. The "middle class," as we call it, is by far the largest class of all, and so with moderate views of what is before you, you will be prepared to receive its good or ill with a calm and composed spirit, and without murmur or complaint.

It happens that we stand to day with these closing exercises, and with these awards to those whose course of study here is now completed, at a point in the ecclesiastical year which suggests a very appropriate lesson with which to conclude these counsels. This is still the season of Whitsuntide, in which the Christian Church, the wide world over, is commemorating the Gift of the Holy Ghost, who bestows upon man the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge, and the favor of the Lord. We say in the appointed collect for this season and this day: "Grant us by the same spirit to have a right judgment in all things, and evermore to rejoice in His holy comfort." And we charge you to remember that only as you are guided, illuminated and sanctified by the Holy Spirit, will any attainments in knowledge avail to your ultimate and eternal happiness. We have endeavored through all the past years of your connection with this school to impress this important truth on your minds. You have never entered upon the daily routine of studies here, at first, in this place of Divine worship you have heard portions of the pure word of God, and sought, in fitting prayer, for His aid in the duties before you. You have been accustomed to say here, day after day, "Almighty God cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit." "Vouchsafe to sanctify and govern both our hearts and bodies in the ways of thy laws and in the works of thy commandments." "Direct us, O Lord, in all our doings, with thy most gracious favor, and further us with thy continual help." "Pour down, we beseech thee, the gift of thy loving kindness upon this school. Grant unto us, and to all who shall be gathered here so to serve thee with a childlike heart, that we may at length attain to that blessed place where thou livest and reignest."

We can not believe that this has been a mere formal lip service all this while, but that your hearts have gone up with these devout petitions, and that God's blessing in this work has been given in response thereto. We would have you careful not to subordinate this part of your education to that of more secular learning. We should take little pleasure in our work here if it had not this element of religious culture in it, and if we did not hope that our pupils went out from us with a higher reverence for the word of God, a firmer belief in the truths of the Christian religion, and more earnest devotion to the duties of life and the service of God. And it is with the hope that in this life your moderation in all things will appear, that we now "commend you to God and the word of His grace, which is able to build you up and give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified."

MILITARY NOTES.

A board of survey to consist of Major Elisha J Bailey, surgeon, Major Joseph H. Eaton, paymaster, 1st. Lieutenant Joseph A. Sladen, 14th infantry, aide-de-camp, will assemble at the subsistence depot in this city, at 11 o'clock, A. M., the 6th instant, to examine and report the condition and fix the responsibility therefor of certain subsistence stores reported unfit for issue, for which Captain William H. Bell, commissary of subsistence, depot commissary is accountable. The junior member of the board will act as recorder.

2. Upon the recommendation of the medical director, Assistant Surgeon Daniel Weisel, now awaiting orders in this city, is assigned to duty as post surgeon at Fort Canby, W. T., to which post he will repair and report to the commanding officer. Upon arrival at Fort Canby of Assistant Surgeon Weisel, acting Assistant Surgeon Stacey Hemenway will be relieved, and will proceed to Camp Harney, Oregon, and report to the commanding officer for temporary duty as post surgeon during the absence on leave of Assistant Surgeon Bartholf.

3. Under the provisions of circular letter from the war department, dated March 1, 1876, leave of absence for two months, to take effect the 20th instant, to visit the Centennial Exhibition, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, is granted Assistant Surgeon John H. Bartholf, (Camp Harney, Oregon.) No extension to this leave can be sanctioned by the department commander, as upon the prompt return of the officer, at its expiration, depends the granting of similar leaves to other officers.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

G. M. Burnett, charged with larceny by bailee, in hiring a horse and forgetting to return him, will be examined to-morrow.

Mrs. Smallden was before the court again for drunkenness, and was released on condition that she would return to her home and not be found on the streets again.

Chas. Thompson, charged with illegal voting, had his trial set for to-morrow. It seems he has been voting here for several years, as he works here during the summer but spends the winter outside the county.

John Martin, a tipsy sailor, found a buggy and horse standing in front of a store on First street, which he "boarded" and sailed about in for a couple of hours, and then returned them, when he was arrested. The court will examine his "log" in the morning.

THE TURF.

Next Saturday afternoon a trotting race will come off over the East Portland trotting park for a purse of $200. Free for the following named horses: Mollie Welch, Black Bird, Mystery, Parrot, Bashaw, Startle. Three-fourth mile heats; 3 in 5. First horse, $150; second, $50. Entrance ten per cent. Entries must close with W. H. Andrus, at the Occidental hotel, on Thursday, June 8th, before 8 o'clock P. M.; three or more to enter, three to start.

The Supply Depot of the Body.

The stomach is the grand supply depot of the body, upon which it draws for all the elements needed in the composition of bone, muscle, brain and blood. The liver is an important auxiliary of this mighty organ, and the two are most intimately connected. Nothing so certainly assures the harmonious action of these viscera, and so completely removes the disorder which simultaneously affects both, as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular American specific for all complaints to which the stomach, liver and bowels are subject, and the foremost tonic on this side of the Atlantic. Indigestion, costiveness, inactivity and congestion of the liver, poverty of the blood, debility of the bladder and kidneys, and many other ailments produced by or causing weakness, are entirely removed by its use.

"COTTAGES BY THE SEA," ETC.

Mr. J. D. Holman, from Ilwaco, is in the city and will be here the remainder of the week. He expects five of his summer cottages as nearly ready for use. They contain three rooms, including the summer kitchen—departments with two stove flues. The surroundings of these cottages are beautiful and convenient. Occupants (if they chose to do so) can conveniently take their meals at the Bayview hotel, kept by the "inimitable" Mr. and Mrs C. H. Dexter. The large new livery stable of Messrs. Loomis & Caruthers will be completed by the 1st of July, which will afford accommodations for all who wish to take private carriages and teams. Mr. H. is erecting his large tent for the free use of the public for social purposes. He also tenders the free use of grounds, both on the Bay and North Beach, to all who wish to erect tents for the season. If Mr. Holman finds immediate sale for his cottages, he will proceed at once to erect others. Mr. H. expects to return on Monday next, and he may be found on the grounds until the 1st of July, when he will return to Portland to attend the celebration.

Everybody's favorite—the "golden thread" cigar.

Throat Affections and Hoarseness.—All suffering from Irritation of the Throat and Hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

The oldest man in Oregon will be here at the Centennial, and during his stay will purchase a summer outfit at Rosenblatt's, 79 Front street, where bargains are offered.

Ask your dealer for the "golden thread" cigar.

RETURNED.

Dr. Wightman has again returned to this city, where he can be found at his rooms, northeast corner of Stark and Fourth streets. Remember he makes a specialty of HEMORRHOIDS OR PILES and other DISEASES OF THE RECTUM, giving IMMEDIATE RELIEF AND CURING in a very short time, without interfering with the business of the patient. I use no knife, caustic, ligature or any other painful remedies, having treated many cases of twenty and thirty years' standing with entire satisfaction to the parties treated. I have no hesitation in saying SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. Persons at a distance may consult by mail. The "process" sent by express C. O. D. (not by mail). Consultation fee, $2. 230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation, and suitable for grain or vegetables.
940 Acres, four miles southeast of Salem, on the railroad, with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county, with fine springs, consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim, on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground chained by Mr. Alfred Stanton, of Salem.
2,300 Acres of prairie and light brush land, with timber for farming purposes, bounded by the Willamette River for four miles, beautiful lake on the east, boat landings all along the river, commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately surveyed, and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels, to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage, and I can offer any person or persons, or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley, near the city of Salem and within reach of the best [illegible] advantages, as well as most favorably located with respect to markets, greater advantages, on more favorable terms, than they can ever expect to realize again. TRUST.

Searching for strawberries ready to eat,
Finding them fragrant and large and sweet,
What do you think I found at my feet,
Deep in the green hill side?
Four brown sparrows, the cunning things,
Feathered on back and breast and wings,
Proud with the dainty plumage brings,
Opening their four mouths wide.

Stooping lower to catch my prize,
Watching their motions with eager eyes,
Dropping my berries with glad surprise,
A plaintive sound I heard
And looking up at the mournful call,
I spied on a branch near the old stone wall,
The poor little mother bird.

With grief and terror her heart was wrung,
And while to the slender bough she clung,
She felt that the life of her birdlings hung
On a still more tender thread
"Ah, birdie," I said, "if you only knew
That my heart was tender and warm and true!
But the thought that I loved her birdlings too
Never entered her small brown head.

And so through this world of ours we go,
Bearing our burdens of needless woe,
Many a heart beating heavy and slow
Under its load of care
But oh! if we only, only knew
That God was tender and warm and true,
And that He loved us through and through,
Our hearts would be lighter than air.

The recent disturbance in the value of silver was the ground for the expression of some fears that the influx of that coin from the East to this coast would work in a serious if not a disastrous result. But these fears have now been about dissipated and as the Commercial News says, the rate of discount on it will soon reach such a figure as to afford no profit to speculators. If the depreciation however, reaches too low a point our people will immediately take the matter in hand as they recently did when trade dollars were a drug in the market, and by refusing to take silver at anything more than its value as bullion put an end to the evil. The time has gone by when a circulating medium possessing less than its face value can be floated at all in an intelligent community; and although the notion broached in some quarters that we should favor it on patriotic grounds—silver being to a large extent an American product—may perhaps be in appearance rather seductive, it is but another attempt to introduce into finance principles entirely foreign to it, and which if adopted would make America the jest of intelligent financiers the world over.

Foreign Breadstuffs Markets.

The New York Bulletin of a late date has the following on the condition of the breadstuffs market: "With some fluctuations in value, the breadstuffs markets during the past week have made a substantial gain in strength and buoyancy, more noticeable in the instance of spring wheat than in any other interests in this line. Foreign advices have been quite generally favorable to sellers, reporting cold and unpropitious weather for the growing crops—which show little headway in vegetation—as well as for farming operations generally, and, in consequence of this, more confident dealings in the leading grain markets of Western Europe, and on a firmer basis as to prices, which conditions were even more clearly developed on the continent than in the United Kingdom. Germany, Belgium and Holland especially became more urgent purchasers of supplies; and this not only in the market of England of cargoes off the coast or at the ports of call, but also in this country. Through the influences thus brought to bear on the course of trade, the volume of transactions was enlarged and quotations advanced."

The Wool Market.

As the season progresses there seems to be but little prospect for any important improvement in this commodity either on this coast or at the East. The reason assigned for the depression is the large number of failures and suspension of mills, in New England especially, caused by the absence of a demand for their goods. The latest of our exchanges from New York and Boston report that small sales continue, though an exceptional transaction of importance is occasionally made when extra inducements are held out by the holder. The price for fancy clip in Boston this time last year was 40c per pound, and a fair quotation for choice lots was 35c, fully 10c higher than present current rates. The depreciation in the local market is about the same. Receipts recently increased considerably, but transactions are limited, as most of that coming to hand is being shipped on owners' account. The shearing season is nearly closing east of the mountains, but is just under full way in this valley, having been delayed by the long-continued spring rains. The bulk of present receipts are from east of the mountains and show some improvement in the work of sorting and packing over the clips of former years.

Wheat Freights.

The Commercial News, under date of May 26th, reports freights in San Francisco quite active, and says the number of desirable disengaged vessels in port suitable for wheat has been considerably reduced. No inquiry exists for vessels for immediate loading, the tonnage previously secured being considered ample to take the balance of this season's crop. The demand for facilities for shipping salmon and other merchandise to England has been met by the laying on of the Coldstream, and other vessels will undoubtedly be secured by one or the other of our leading houses as the wants of shippers are felt. Several ships have arrived during the week under charter for new crop loading, and we have now some 21,830 tons in port. In charters to arrive we hear of nothing new, the demand apparently being satisfied for the present. Spot freights for first class vessels to a direct port from San Francisco, June and July loading, are now quoted at £3 2s 6d, and in view of the firmness of the market, owners of disengaged vessels near at hand seem disposed to take their chances rather than charter. At the same time, vessels which have recently sailed for this coast are offered freely, with no disposition on the part of operators to take them at present. Outside business offers no points of interest, and the dullness which has characterized it for so long a time continues.

Shipping Intelligence.

The bark Edward James sailed for Hongkong April 28th for this port, and will be due about the last of this month. The ship S. G. Reed is also about due from the same port.

The brig Sea Waif, for San Francisco, went to sea last Saturday, laden principally with salmon.

The brig Orient, with lumber from Knappton for San Francisco, went to sea last Friday.

The bark Dawn is loading at some point down the river for San Francisco, and will go to sea the latter part of this week.

Besides 400 tons of flour shipped by Kinney & Co., the Wave Queen has on board for Liverpool direct, 13,000 cases salmon from Bay View and Brookfield. She will take on 140 tons more at Kinney's Astoria factory this week, and will then be ready for sea.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE,

600,000 Acres in

EASTERN OREGON!

For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO, Grant and Baker counties, and are offered for sale in such sized tracts, not less than 160 acres, as purchasers may desire. Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to immigrants and settlers seeking homes and low priced land to acquire both on the most reasonable terms. These lands are excellent for farming and grazing. On most of the tracts no grubbing, or other preparation of the land for plowing is requisite. A growth of nutricious grass covers the uplands, affording the best of pasturage, while in the valleys and bottom lands the grass can be mowed and made into hay. Living springs and streams water the lands in various directions. The uplands, or rolling lands, can be put into crops with the most satisfactory return. Fruit, particularly peaches, plums, grapes, apples, pears and cherries, as well as the smaller fruits, can be grown in great abundance. The climate of Eastern Oregon is very healthful. Flourishing towns are located at convenient points for traffic; the mails are regularly conveyed throughout that section, and a prosperous population is already established, occupied in farming, stock growing, mining, and various other pursuits.

Terms, $1 25 per acre and upwards, according to quality and quantity. Interest ten per cent on deferred payments.
